IT speaks favorably, we think, for the intellifuence and sound national feeling of the people of this country, that Mesers Little. Brown & Co. have been called upon to issue the sixth edition of Mr. Webster's Works. We have been struck with the justice of the opinion expressed by a distinguished clergyman of Philadelphia, in a discourse on the character of Mr. Webster, that "the best thing we can do for training our young men is to place in their hands the works of this great statesman;" and also of his remark upon the influence of that recommendation, "I feel that I have rendered every family a useful service, which may have been induced, through my recommendation, to give it a place among their household books." From a general conviction of the truth here expressed, in addition to the interest which avery intelligent reader who once enters upon the perusal of Mr. Webster's speeches or writings, either from the importance of the subjects treated, the soundness and force of the views expressed, or from the charm of the style and manner of discussion, we have no doubt that these works will attain a much wider circulation and a far more general perusal, than those of any other American author. The excellent manner in which the work is published, and the reasonableness of the price, recommends it to a general circulation

We learn that an idea has been entertained, to some extent, that the edition above referred to, edited by Mr. Everett, may be hersafter superseeded by another and more complete edition. This is a mistake. This edition was compiled and edited with great care during the lifetime of Mr. Webster.

Should there be a further publication of correspondence or miscellanies, it will be in the form of an addition which will in no degree impair the value of the present edition, bu would tend to increase its interest.

In confirmation of this fact we are authorized to publish the following letter from Mr. Fletcher Webster, one

Webster:
"Boerow, January 10, 1853.
"MESSES. LITTLE, BROWN & Co.—Gentlemen: I have been informed that frequent inquiries are made of you as to the completeness of your edition of Mr. Webster's works.

made of you as to the completeness of your edition of Mr Webster's works.

"The present volumes, edited by Mr. Everett and published by you, contain every thing, up to March, 1852, which was intended to be included in his entire published works.

"It is probable that one or two volumes of correspondence may hereafter be collected and published in the same style with your six volumes. This cannot be considered as definitively decided upon; but it is certain that no publication will be made which will render your edition incomplete, or in any way diminish its value.

"Yours, very respectfully,
"FLETCHER WEBSTER."

"FLETCHER WEBSTER."

"We have already expressed, very decidedly the opinion that the Boston Webster Memorial, also published by Messrs. Little, Brown & Co., is the most satisfactory and interesting of all the books which his death has called from the press. The subjects presented are well selected and treated with excellent taste and feeling, and it contains the most valuable of the tributes to the memory of the deceased statesman."—Boston Daily Advertiser.

"These volumes are a collection of imperishable models in constitutional law, jurisprudence, international law, diplomacy, finance, legislation, and literature—a collection not to be matched by this, and hardly by any other country, in capital and multiform excellence. There is not a page in these books which may not give the world assurance of a transcendent intellect; not a page which will not make posterity prouder of the land of their fathers. These productions will be perpetuated as long as the English language endures."

[New York Courier and Enquirer.

"Distinguished men have monuments erected for them by their grateful countrymen, and sometimes by the people of another nation, or by a remote posterity. Daniel Webster has taken care to build his own, and in his lifetime. The six ample volumes of his works just published by Mesgrs. Little & Brown, of Boston, will constitute a more precious and durable memorial of his existence and his greatness, than the granite column, the marble or brasen bust.

and his greatness, than the granite column, the marble or brasen bust.

"We shall not attempt to mention, nor even hint at, the deservings of Mr. Webster, still less to compare him with other men. There is a shorter course, which is to invite the community to weigh and value them for themselves. There are his works, such of them as have been collected. There they stand. They shall speak for him. They want only to have readers to create admirers."

[Nesserk Daily Adecritiser.

"In company with the writings of Washington and Frankiin, they constitute a most essential part of the history of our Republic. No lapse of time can destroy their value so long as the world shall feel an interest in knowing how the greatness of the American nation was built up and preserved, and how the genus and spirit of the people in the dintetenth century were embodied and personified in one eminent individual—emphatically the American Statzsman."

[Boston Courier.

"By the side of the excellent edition of the works of Edmund Burke, issued some years since by the same publishers, every student of politics may well place this edition of the works of Daniel Webster."—Washington Republic.

PUTNAM'S MOPTHLY.

THE SUBSCRIBERS, responding to the repeated and orgently expressed wish of eminent and judicious persons in various sections of the country, have decided to commence, on the first of January, 1853, AN ENTIRELY ORIGINAL PERIODICAL, under the above title.

It is intended to combine the lighter characteristics of a popular magazine with the higher and graver qualities of a quarterly review, filling a position bither to unoccupied in our literature.

While attractive vaniery for the general reader is thus obtained, there will be an attempt to secure substantial excellence in intend that the work in all its mechanical and business aspects shall be such as will meet the views of our most distinguished writers—such a medium as they would such as may tempt some to write ably and profitably who have not hitherto contributed to periodicals.

We intend that all articles admitted into the seek for in communicating with the world, and such as may tempt some to write ably and profitably who have not hitherto contributed to periodicals.

We intend that all articles admitted into the work shall be liberally paid for.

We believe that an ample material exists for such a work; that there is no lack either of talent among our writers or of appreciation on the part of the reading public; and that a properly conducted periodical of this kind may bring to light much true genius as yet undeveloped.

"Putnam's Monthly" will be devoted to the interests of Literature, Science and Art—in their best and pleasantest aspects.

Entirely independent of all merely selfish interests, or partisan or sectional leanings, in its management, it will be open to competent writers for free discussion of such topics as are deemed important and of public interest.

The critical department will be wholly independent of the publishers, and, as far as possible, of all personal influence or bias. Wholesome castigations of public abuses will be allowed a fair field without fear or favor.

An elevated national tone and spirit, American and independent, yet discriminating and just, both to the literature and to the social condition and prospects of both hemispheres, will be cultisated as a leading principle of the work.

Special attention will be given to matters connected with social policy, municipal regulations, public health and safety, and the practical economics of every-day life.

While a subject needs illustration, or pictorial example, such illustrations will be occasionally given; but it is not expected that the success of the work is to depend on what are termed "embellishments."

The following, among many others, have expressed their hearty approval of the plan, and will all give it their general co-operation, while nearly all of them will be contributors to the wor'.

GRAHAM AND GODEY, BOTH FOR SAPER ANNUM.

THE WIDESPREAD CIRCULATION and acknowledged ability of these popular Magazines, render long descriptions and elaborate puffery unnecessary. They are known and read in every corner of our country, and are as household words in the mouths of those who pretend to judgment in Literature or taste in Art. The pens of our most accomplished writers, as well as the burins of the ablest artists, are enlisted to enrich and adorn their pages—and all that is now famous in letters or beautiful in engravings, in the world of periodical literature, is owing to the fostering care and lavish expense of these two prominent American periodicals.

Their imitators fail always in equalling them, for want of public support, and the poor dupes who are led to subscribe to the hastily-born enterprises which spring up every year to delude the public, with promises of wind and words of sound, find that these well-established works are, as yet, the only reliable sources to which they can look for a faithful performance of all contracts entered into with subscribers.

The publishers of Godey and of Graham have determined that for 1853 they will surpass in the chespness, elegance and merit of their periodicals, all that has ever been attempted, and as the works are dissimilar, have resolved to place both within the reach of all, who desire to keep thoroughly posted up in the rapidy-improving periodical literature of the age.

The best and freshest, both in Literature and Art, will be found in their ample and greatly multiplied pages, and they challenge the world to excel or equal the forthcoming volumes, either in the beauty and cost of their adornments, the merit and amplitude of literary matter, or in the cheapness and accomodating terms with which they are presented to the American public.

Unequalled Terms to Clubs.

Of the Discontinuance of the United States Land Office at Crawfordsville, Indiana.

UNDER the provisions of the second section of the act of Congress approved June 12, 1840, which declares "that whenever the quantity of public land remaining unsold in any land district shall be reduced to a number of acres less than one hundred thousand, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to discontinue the Land Office for such district; and if any land in any such district shall remain unsold at the time of the discontinuance of a land office, the same shall be subject to sale at some one of the existing land offices most convenient to the district in which the land office shall have been discontinued, of which the Secretary of the Treasury shall give notice;" and inasmuch as the duty above required has been devolved upon the Secretary of the Interior by the "Act to establish the Home Department," approved 3d March, 1849:

Notice is accordingly hereby given that the Secretary of the Interior has directed that the Land Office at Crawrozdeville, in the State of Indiana, be discontinued, and the lands remaining unsold at the time of the discontinuance are to be subject to sale at the Land Office at Indiana/or, in said State.

Lands remaining unsold, and unappropriated by law, and subject to private entry within the limits of the Crawrozdeville district, will cease to be subject to entry as heretofore at that office, from the date of the receipt of this notice by the Register and Receiver thereof, and the land officer at Indiana/office at land office, from the date of the receipt of this notice by the Register and Receiver thereof, and the land officer at Indiana/office at land office.
